"We are delighted to welcome Jeff Joerres to the board during this crucial time for the economy and the nation's monetary policy," said Charles L. Evans President and Chief Executive Officer of the Chicago Fed. "Manpower's research into employment outlook coupled with Jeff's insights about world labor markets will be tremendous assets as we navigate the economic recovery."

Board directors are selected to represent a cross-section of the Seventh District economy, including consumers, industry, agriculture, the service sector, labor and commercial banks of various sizes. The Board has nine members. Seventh District banks that are members of the Fed System elect three bankers and three non-bankers. The Federal Reserve Board of Governors appoints three additional non-bankers and designates the board's chair and deputy chair from among its three appointees.

Joerres replaces John A. Canning, Jr., Chairman of Madison Dearborn Partners in Chicago, Illinois.
