

Hiring Outlook Remains Optimistic for Q2 as Global Talent Shortage Hits 17-Year High

March 14, 2023

- Employers in all 41 countries anticipate a positive hiring Outlook in Q2, with 22 of 41 countries reporting higher intentions compared to last quarter.
- The most optimistic Outlooks are reported by employers in IT, Communication Services, and Finance/Real Estate
- Global talent shortages are at an all-time high: 77% of employers report difficulty in filling roles, with the most difficult roles to fill in IT & Data, Engineering, and Sales & Marketing.

MILWAUKEE, March 14, 2023 /PRNewswire/ -- While recessionary concerns and layoffs continue to make headlines, the latest ManpowerGroup (NYSE: MAN) Employment Outlook Survey of nearly 39,000 employers in 41 countries and territories finds their appetite for hiring continues in the second quarter of 2023. The optimism remains despite organizations struggling to activate their hiring plans with global talent shortages reaching 77%, a 17-year global high.

"Despite economic pressures, hiring Outlooks remain resilient."
-ManpowerGroup Chairman & CEO Jonas Prising

Hiring intentions remain unchanged from last quarter at +23%, while employers continue to have difficulty finding people with the right skills. Organizations say IT & Data (27%), Engineering (22%), and Sales & Marketing (20%) skills are among the most sought-after technical skills they're looking for, with Reliability & Self-discipline (29%), Resilience & Adaptability (26%), Critical Thinking & Analysis (26%), Creativity & Originality (26%), and Reasoning & Problem-solving (26%) the top-desired soft skills.

"Despite economic pressures, hiring Outlooks remain resilient and employers across every industry continue to look for in-demand roles," said ManpowerGroup Chairman and CEO Jonas Prising. "At the same time, tight labor markets mean many face challenges finding people who have the soft and technical skills they need. Investment in upskilling, reskilling, and a focus on preparing people for tomorrow's jobs has never been more important and should be at the top of every business leader's agenda."
